“ Pedge is one of the coolest guys I know. Marilyn's been bringin me to the lake to work her show for the last eleven summers. Got to know this snappy dressing older gent who would never sit, but propped up the bar for the cute young wait-staff. He never missed a performance. VERY hip.

Then in 2011 he didn't show til closing night. The wind had fallen out of his sails, but he was still on course. He surprised me by accepting my offer of a seat; and I got him the best there was - next to a grand dame to boot. After the show Pedge finally confided in me, "You know, I've loved her since ninteen sixty-six." And I do know. There is an understanding between solitary males. I admire Pedge Hakes, and aspire to end up like him: a class act all the way.
