“ When I first met Rina, she was wearing a metal band t's, and loved anything out of the norm. Rina is an incredible person, from escaping a fire as a kid, to being the first openly LGBTQA person in small town Iowa, she never let anything hold her back. I remember she sang at the Hershey Relays and starting singing Hannah Montana over the loud speaker, she knew what she was supposed to sing, she knew what she wanted to sing more. She always knows what she wants. She is such a joy of a person. Rina was part of the family, and I know she had the same effect on many other people. She's such a bright personality and she made everyone she wanted to be around feel incredible. Rina had a lot of love to give the world, and she didn't give herself nearly enough credit. She brought laughter and love to everyone's life she entered. She will be missed dearly. She loved God and surely is resting in the Kingdom, helping style the angels. telling God that a little highlighter would make their eyes pop. We love and miss you Rina, keep slaying in Heaven. Rest in Power Queen <3

“ She was such a kind hearted person. I've met her only a few times, but the moment I met her, there was something special about her. She was so sweet, caring and just full of life. She never let anything get in her way. To her family, I am deeply sorry for your loss, may her heart and soul live on forever. Sweet dreams warrior.

“ Rina was the kind of friend that you can never have to much of but also can't get enough. She was the kind of person that could make a boring situation way more entertaining by simply being present. We shared so many memories that are unforgettable and I'm saddened that we won't share any more. We weren't speaking and at the time and hadn't for a couple years, we've got in to many messy fights as do all friends who grow close to each other but now none of it matters. All that matters is we were great friends when we were and this has taught me that no matter what you and your friends go through at the end of the day, if you love someone, hold them close. To Rinas family, I am deeply sorry for your loss, she truly was one of a kind. She is in my heart forever.
